the Editor's Desk—

This "Numisma," the May-June number, should be in your hands in the middle of August. As more or less of an experiment, we are conducting a small mail bid auction sale in this issue. If our subscribers and regular customers like the idea, we will continue to make a regular mail sale a regular "Numisma" feature. Enclosed you will find a postage free, self addressed, return reply post card for your bids. Please use your bid card early. If however, you do wait until the last minute, you can mark your bid card "Air Mail," place a four cent stamp in the upper right hand corner, and pray that it gets to us by the closing date.

In the "March-April" number (mailed July 8th and up to a week or so later), we included a card which we requested be filled out by those wanting to subscribe to "Numisma" (and receiving same by first class mail) and by those collectors and dealers who want to insure of receiving our periodic Auction Sale Catalogs. If you have filled out, folded and returned same to us, we earnestly suggest you do so at once. If you did not receive a card, or have lost or misplaced the one received, drop us a line and we'll gladly send you another.

Be sure to drop by our table at the Omaha A.N.A. Convention. We always have something interesting to sell at the right price, will take almost anything, and are probably too willing to "shoot the breeze."

Don't forget to mail those bids in early.

THE QUESTION FORUM

We invite our readers to submit any questions or problems relating to U. S., American or Canadian Coins, Medals, Tokens, Literature, etc., including Restrikes and similar material. The questions of most general interest will be answered in detail here; others will receive written replies on receipt of stamped self-addressed envelope.

Ques. What are considered the five rarest Half Eagles? My friend can't agree on the same coins. G. H., Oakland, Calif.

Ans. Let us assume that you mean dates and mintmarks, not varieties. Probably the most renowned rarity in the entire Half Eagle series, if not in the whole U.S. field, is the famous 1822. One of the three known is in the Mint collection, now in the Smithsonian; the second is in the Eliasberg collection; the third was lately sold of the Brand collection. After the 1822 comes the so-called 1829, over 1824, which apparently only exists in proof. The discovery, for example, from the Earle and Clapp collections, is owned by Mr. Eliasberg. Two or three others have been reported, but we have not seen them, or else have not been satisfied of the overdate. There are several contenders for third place. Both types of the 1829 (Large planchet, date, stars and letters, type of 1828; Small planchet, date, stars and letters, type of 1830) have been claimed as next to 1822 in rarity. Waldo Newcomer's inventory states that four of the former, five of the latter, although the "type of 1829" is cataloged higher in the Standard Catalog. Recently however, the 1829 Large date supposedly sold for $11,000., which indicates that Newcomer was on the right track. Another nomination for a really rare Half Eagle is the little known 1841 "O". This coin lists for $100. Fine and $40. Unc. in the latest (8th Edition) Guidebook, but it would happily pay at least $1,000. for an authentic specimen. Some 8,350 '41 "O's" were allegedly coined, but the 1840 "O" dies were not destroyed until after the first 8,300 had been struck, so it is possible that those were dated 1840. Only one 1841 "O" is known to us at the moment. A New York collector picked it up (as a sleeper) at the Farouk sale last year. It had earlier been in the O'Green hoard. While far from a "classic" rarity, this is one coin you would pay to look for in the usual odd places. We will pay a reasonable asking price for the first one that shows up, even though there should be a few floating around. Still another contender is the 1815 with curled 2 and twelve stars. Some years ago, Wayte Raymond could only locate three specimens, after considerable search. One of these is in the Mint collection; another is in the Eliasberg collection (ex Atwater); a third is in the Byron Reed collection, in the Omer City Library; a fourth was sold with the Farouk collection. Of the other famous dates, about seven examples each are known of 1815 and 1798 Small Eagle, while 1827, 1828/7, 1828, 1854 "1" and 1824 follow close upon their heels. Of course, if you intend to include Proofs in the reckoning, then the two dates 1838 and 1839 would nudge even the 1822 out of place. Only one 1838 in Proof has turned up; this is in the Byron Reed collection. Only two 1839 in Proof are known to have been made, and neither of these has been located. They were sent to the Secretary of the Treasury by the Director, March 22, 1839, as samples of the new Coronet design. The other dates from 1820 to 1833 are about equally rare in Proof, R-8's or borderline R-8's, as detailed in the recent Monograph on Proofs by Walter Breen.

You cannot let prices paid indicate the "rarest" coin in any series. Rare actually means the number known, while price suggests the "valuable" piece, although not all prices are as reliable as they appear at first glance. What one man will pay at a particular time for a specific coin depends not only upon the coin, but how it is valued to him, what advantage he can obtain by purchase at that moment, other than ownership, and a host of other angles, many of them of prime importance.

Ques. Crosby lists the 1792 Birch Cent as a "trialpiece of the infant Mint," Adams and Woodin call it a pattern, many collectors think of it as a Colonial, and one of my friends thinks it may have been a regular issue because they all come worn. Who is right? Keene, N. H.

Ans. This ultimately boils down to deciding whether this cent was issued during the last few days of December, 1792 in the Mint, intended as a regular issue or as a pattern. That it circulated but was witness only to its full weight and value as copper, and to the use for small change. The other coins of 1792 have been discussed in the recent monograph (THE U. S. PATTERNS OF 1792, by Walter Breen; The Coin Collector's Journal, March-April 1954; $1.50), and the conclusions there drawn were that the disme and half disme were struck outside the mint under official auspices, and that the small center cent and small copper cent without silver plug were patterns because they failed to conform to the demands of the Mint Act of April 2, 1792, which called for a cent weighing 264 grains. On the other hand, the Birch Cent would seem to come as nearly as possible to the definition of a regular issue for circulation, despite the overdate 1792. It conforms exactly to the terms of the authorizing act, devices, legends and weight; it was actually thrown into circulation.

d (significantly) Thomas Jefferson referred to the large Birch Cent "the real cent as ordered by Congress, 4 times as big" (as the all patterns). This phrase is found in Jefferson's letter of Dec. 18, 1792 to Washington, quoted on page 2 of the above monograph. Moreover, Section 1 of the Mint Act of May 8, 1792 authorized the Director to purchase copper for coinage, and says further that "the said Director, as soon as the needful preparations shall be made, shall cause the copper by him purchased to be coined at the Mint to cents . . . ; and that the said cents . . . be paid into the Treasury of the United States, thence to issue into circulation." In September, 1792, six pounds of old copper were accordingly purchased. Within the last few days of December, 1792, the three varieties of the Birch Cent were struck and released into circulation under authority of the Mint Act of April 1792. It appears that they might well be counted as the first U.S. cents of regular issue. In which case their listings on the Sheldon scale might be as follows: 1792. 1a. Birch type, plain edge. R-7; BV $35; Condition Census 20.

1792. 1b. Same, but edge TO BE ESTEEMED ★ BE USEFUL ★ . (possibly R-8); BV $40; Condition Census 40-15.

1792. 1c. Same, but edge TO BE ESTEEMED BE USEFUL ★ ★ . (possibly R-8); BV $40; Condition Census 30-15.

The coin without the name BIRCH mentioned in the Guidebook is a unique pewter trialpiece from different (rejected?) dies, once in Bascom collection, properly described in the Standard Catalogue. It presumably represents a rejected pattern of the Birch issue.

FIRST "NUMISMA"

MAIL AUCTION SALE

CLOSING DATE

SEPT. 30, 1955

TERMS OF SALE

1. All bids to be per lot as numbered below.
2. Bidders who have not established credit must send a deposit equal to 25% of their bids.
3. Postage and Insurance charges will be added to invoices where merchandise is shipped.
4. Lots will be available at our office for inspection thirty days prior to the date of sale. Material will be shipped far prior inspection if requests are made early enough, and with the understanding that all postage charges will be borne by those requesting such service.
5. A list of prices realized will appear in the next issue of "Numisma."
6. Unfortunately, unlimited or "Buy" bids cannot be accepted.

Naturally, all material is "Unconditionally Guaranteed." Lots will be bought as cheaply as possible, so we advise liberal bidding in order to insure success.
